Huskers Hold 3-1 Edge In Frog Series

By DON BRYANT
Sports Information Director

Nebraska and Texas Christian resume a two-year rivalry today after a seven-year lapse in the series that the Cornhuskers lead, 3-1.

Coach Bob Devaney's Huskers opened the 1965 and 1966 seasons against the Horned Frogs in Lincoln and won both games in contrasting fashion.

In 1965 the Huskers had an easy 34-14 afternoon against the young Frogs, but a year later TCU—pepped by some folks like Sonny Campbell, Norm Bulaich and Ross Montgomery—were tough.

It took a while for the Huskers to warm up, but Choo Choo Charlie Winters finally got NU on the board with a 6-yard run. TCU tied it up 7-7 at halftime and the Huskers got an 11-yard TD pass from Bobby Churchich to Dennis Morrison for a 14-7 lead early in the third quarter. The Frogs got a 16-yard Bruce Alford field goal for the final score of 14-10.

Nebraska went on to win nine straight and gain a Sugar Bowl bid, and in 1967, the Huskers bounced back from losses to Kansas and Colorado to whip the Frogs, 29-0, at Ft. Worth.

TCU won the first game of the series 28-7 to launch a disastrous season for Coach Bill Glassford and the Cornhuskers back in 1951.

The Huskers' high hopes were dashed by All America halfback Bobby Reynolds' shoulder separation in fall camp and they proceeded to lose six straight. After a 34-27 win over Iowa State, Nebraska dropped three more games for a humiliating 1-9-0 record.

However, the season mark now stands at 2-8-0 because Kansas State had to forfeit its victory because of an ineligible player that saw action.

TCU went on to post a 6-4 record in 1951 and win the Southwest Conference championship before losing 20-7 in the Cotton Bowl.

The 1975 Frogs are coached by Jim Shofner, who starred for TCU back in 1955-56-57. An All SWC-halfback, Shofner once logged a 90-yard punt return to defeat Ohio State 18-14 at Columbus. He went on to an impressive career as a defensive back with the Cleveland Browns before retiring from the NFL in 1964 to enter coaching.

All Nebraskans join in welcoming back the TCU Horned Frogs—they'll play in Lincoln in 1976 too—and their fine fans to Memorial Stadium today.

NU Foundation Assets Total $23.5 Million

The Board of Trustees of the University of Nebraska Foundation learned this week at its annual meeting that Foundation assets increased $1.3 million during the past fiscal year, to a total of $23.5 million.

Harry R. Haynie, Foundation president said, "There are at least another $10 million in endowments being held by other fiduciary agents from which the Foundation receives the annual income. For all practical purposes, the true assets of the Foundation are in the neighborhood of $35 million."

Total gifts during the last fiscal year, ending June 30, totaled $2.2 million, down $816,000 from the previous year. Mr. Haynie blamed the economic conditions of the country for the decline, along with a decrease in bequests received and fewer grants from other Foundations.

Benefits turned over to the University totaled $2.1 million, including $344,500 in grants from unrestricted funds. Among the benefits transferred and the areas receiving the gifts were: Scholarships, $529,443; fellowships, $170,292; research projects and equipment, $331,624; professorships, $201,602; Medical Center projects, $105,247; College of Law, $59,738; travel grants, $46,193; College of Dentistry, $15,492; UNL School of Journalism, $20,492; University State Museum, $60,990; Sheldon Art Gallery, $18,861; Library acquisitions, $18,240; and economic education program, $23,933.

Among the gifts received were: $557,855 from living alumni; $153,811, non-alumni; $650,682, estates; $144,978, other Foundations; $181,572, organizations; $402,827, corporate support; and $18,445, matchings gifts from companies.

Mr. Haynie said that outstanding student loans as of June 30th, totaled $219,193, up $50,000 from a year ago.

NU Library Facilities Expanded, Improved

With the completion of an addition to Love Library, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln library system has its "first orderly organization in years," according to Dean Waddel, associate director of the libraries for public service.

The Love Library addition, completed this summer, is a two-story, $2.4 million structure attached to the north side of the old library. It has space for 644,112 volumes and study stations for 372 students.

(Above) A southeastern view of the Love Library addition . . . the "link" with the old building is at the left. (Upper Right) Order operations and cataloging are handled in the new technical services area. The instrument at the lower left is an OCLC terminal (Ohio College Library Center on-line cataloging system) which allows the library to benefit from book cataloging done by other libraries. (Lower Right) The "link" between the old and new libraries houses the card catalogs, information services and the periodicals collection of approximately 6,000 titles.

Library improvements, made as a result of the addition, are:

—400,000 volumes have been moved out of storage areas elsewhere on campus.

—The undergraduate collection housed on the second floor of Nebraska Hall will be moved back to Love Library by January, and the engineering library will take over that space.

—The "link" between the old and new buildings allows centralization of information services.

—The University Archives are now consolidated on the third floor of the old library.

THE TOUCHDOWN CLUB OF NEBRASKA

One of the groups most instrumental in helping the University of Nebraska Athletic Department grow in the field of inter-collegiate sports is the Nebraska Touchdown Club.

Contributions from TD Club members have enabled the Cornhuskers to build a fine grant-in-aid program and continued support from the Touchdown Club, and groups like the Husker Achievement Awards, the Extra Point Club, and the Cornhusker Beef Club, will insure that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will always hold a prominent place in the college sports world.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department salutes the many members of the Touchdown Club and takes this opportunity to say a sincere "Thank You."

JUST IN CASE THE CORNHUSKERS WIN. AND JUST IN CASE THEY DON'T.

Whether you're celebrating a touchdown, or eating your heart out over an intercepted pass, do it with one of the 12 different cocktails from THE CLUB.[®]
After all, sitting on the 50-yard line isn't the only way you can enjoy all the excitement of the game.

THE CLUB. A GREAT DRINK ANYWHERE.

YOU KNOW WHAT A
"FULL HOUSE"
IS....
BUT

Even if you're not sure what a credit union is,
we want you to know what it isn't."

Some people tell us our name's confusing. They get us mixed up with credit bureaus and labor unions.

A credit bureau we're not.

Credit bureaus keep track of how you pay your bills. They report on your credit rating.

And we aren't a labor union.

Labor unions work with management on wages, working conditions and fringe benefits.

What we are is a credit union.

A credit union is a financial organization. Formed by people with a "common bond." They may work for the same company, live in the same community, or belong to the same group. They save money together on a regular basis, then loan that money to each other at favorable interest rates.

A credit union is owned by its members and run by its members. It's not in business to make a profit, but to help people. Take it from a member. It's worth looking into.

For more information about credit unions contact the Nebraska Credit Union League 4315 Frances St. Omaha, Nebr. 68105 or call (toll free) 1-800 642 8402

Is YOUR Insurance Agent on this list?

The following list of independent insurance agencies in Nebraska comprises the membership of the Nebraska Association of Independent Insurance Agents, a professional association dedicated to the highest order of service for car, home, and business insurance.

In addition to serving YOU, the customer, first, these professional agents also sponsor the following important activities:

1. The DEFENSIVE DRIVING PROGRAM.
2. The Nebraska EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICE, built around the "911" telephone system, which could save your life in an emergency.
3. The INSURANCE YOUTH CLASSIC, a national golf tournament for young men and women under 18 years of age, involving play on a national level with touring professionals.
4. DRIVER EDUCATION training for young and old alike.
5. Televising of the final games of the Nebraska HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT.
6. Active support of local POLICE and FIRE DEPARTMENTS.
7. Support of the NEBRASKA SAFETY COUNCIL.
8. Support of Big Red Football!!!

*Your independent insurance agent is
THE INSURANCE CONSUMER'S CHAMPION.
He (or she) is a great guy or gal to know and work with.*

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

the excitement, the nostalgia make it a personal love affair

by Joe Concannon, Boston GLOBE

There has always been the personal love affair with the college game, taking its roots from those trips as a kid to the cavernous Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn., and nurtured by my own experiences as a college writer chasing around the East after teams that came close, but never made it in those earlier student days at Boston University.

As a kid, too, I always heard the stories, listening to my father talk about the Four Horsemen and how he had played on the same team with them in Waterbury, Conn., after they had left Notre Dame. I memorized the lead that Grantland Rice had written, making the Four Horsemen "outlined against a blue-gray October sky" a part of our folklore.

I guess, ultimately, it would figure that this would be my vocation, writing about sports and, if it is really the fashionable thing these days to be a pro football writer in one of the 26 National Football League cities, it is not for me. If the Ivy League is not the Big Eight, or the Pac-Eight, it is still a pretty real place to reside.

This thesis, essentially, is about the college game, its universal appeal to the spirit. For openers, though, a contrast serves to set the tone. Two games, eight days apart, at the tail end of the college and pro seasons, support my basic position better than all the words, arguments or pictures I could ever unearth.

The first, on Saturday, Nov. 23, was in Harvard Stadium, that antiquated coliseum once referred to by the late Stanley Woodward as "a pile of porous plaster." The second, on Sunday, Dec. 1, was in Schaefer Stadium, a modern monument that abuts a race track in Foxborough, Mass. Juxtaposed, the two games were light years apart.

In Harvard Stadium, it was what the Harvards and Yales like to call The Game, a socio-athletic phenomenon staged on alternate years in New Haven and Cambridge, Mass. This, of course, is like so many other premiere football rivalries all over the country. At Schaefer Stadium, it was the New England Patriots, alive after 13 years of basic dullness, against the Steelers, eventual Super Bowl champions.

Harvard, under coach Joe Restic, is the most unpredictable of college teams ANYWHERE. With a system he says provides maximum flexibility, he puts the quarterback in motion, releases receivers in 42 different patterns, sends 10 men in on punt blitzes, jumps defenses constantly and, in general, fields a team that is fun to watch.

In the first half, for instance, the All-America wide receiver from Villa

Park, California, Pat McNally, went in motion, took a pitch from quarterback Milt Holt, rolled out to the right and threw a 46-yard touchdown bomb to opposite end Jim Curry. Later, as time ran out, Harvard moved 76 yards in seven plays to score with nine seconds left in the half.

Now, with dusk settling in over the stadium, there was Yale on top, 16-14, and Harvard was penned up at its own five yard line. What happened, basically, was what the college game is really all about. With Holt groggy from a shot he took on the drive, he moved Harvard 95 yards in 14 plays, scoring the winning touchdown in a sweep with 15 seconds to go.

"Why," Restic was asked, "didn't you go for the field goal?" The reason, Restic explained, was that his snap man on punt situations was hurt. "And," he said, "if Holt was in danger (with no time-outs left) he could have thrown it away." As Restic greeted a deliriously happy team, he said, "I hope you enjoy this for the rest of your lives." This particular college game certainly had no corner on the market for exciting, versatile, fast-changing football. You can catch this kind of action from Seattle to Syracuse and Ann Arbor to Austin.

Given the tradition, the intensity of these rivalries, the settings in these college stadiums, the imagination and the will-to-win approach of the coaches and players, it is an experience, a happening staged only in college football. By comparison, what happened eight days later in Schaefer Stadium was a boring, unimaginative exhibition of football put on by professionals in an extravagantly over-priced park.

The Patriots, the early season pro football miracle boys, were crippled, to a significant degree, by injuries. Still, a win over the Steelers would keep the playoff hopes alive. In addition, the win would have been a nice present to those fans who drive all those miles, arriving before noon and being locked in by traffic until well after darkness.

Instead, the Patriots seemed content not to go all out for the win, even with time and the crowd on their side. Rather than go into the details, my first visit to Schaefer in two years as summed up by a comment I wrote for the sports editorial page of the Sunday Globe the following week.

"Maybe," I wrote, "I've been spoiled by watching too many captivating college football games, but I've never been more turned off by an exhibition of dull, listless, unimaginative football than I was by the Patriots' efforts at Schaefer Stadium last Sunday."

"If there is one area in which the pros should excel, it is knowing how to utilize the clock. The Patriots last Sunday scored one touchdown to beat the point spread, but let the clock run out without trying to win the game.

"Give me a college team using the clock to score with nine seconds to go in the first half, moving 95 yards against the clock to win with five seconds to go and winning because it had won the toss and had the wind in the FOURTH quarter."

The collegiate game, a tribute to its own past. If it is marked, to varying degrees by imperfection, its strengths are these very imperfections. It is a game played by the young, watched and appreciated by all ages. Its coaches are the innovators, the men who experiment, gamble and operate on a chess board 100 yards long.

Known as a "hard nosed taskmaster" Ben Schwartzwalder enjoyed an illustrious head coaching career at Syracuse University where he excelled as an innovator introducing some of the greatest players in the game. Such coaches make college ball that exciting, razzle-dazzle game that millions are in love with.

Another statistic, out of the NCAA press kit for 1975, indicates that the college game topped 600 yards total offense and 40 points per game (on the average for both teams) for the seventh straight year. The 648.2 total yards was the fourth highest ever, with the 403.6 rushing figure smashing a record that stood for 18 years by more than 17 yards per game.

It is, to a great degree, the era of the run, with the Veer and the Wishbone the offenses of the Seventies. As one writer said about the Patriots' coach (who put in an awesome wishbone at Oklahoma), he never had to operate against the clock in college. "He simply outpersonneled people. He didn't have to coach. He overwhelmed everybody."

I have never had the opportunity to cover games at many big-time colleges, although in 1973 I covered 14 games and only one was in the Boston area. From Orono, Me. to Ithaca, N.Y. to Morgantown, W. Va. to College Station, Texas, I had a pretty good glimpse of the college game, its traditions and its diversity.

Before Darrell Royal brought his Texas team to town last September for a game against Boston College, I did spend four days in Austin, Texas. Staying at the Villa Capri adjacent to campus, it was pointed out that the Wishbone had been named at a cocktail party in Room 2001.

The Wishbone and the Veer are popular, yes, but there are those of the opposite schools of thought who feel the two offenses are also limiting. When Alabama fell behind Nebraska in the 1972 Orange Bowl game, for example, it was all Nebraska. Forced to pass its way out of a big hole, Alabama was at a distinct disadvantage. Passing is the thing you practice the least in the Wishbone.

Innovators? Yes, even Ben Schwartzwalder at Syracuse, the tough, gruff taskmaster who was criticized for so long because all his teams did was run. After all, when you had a Jimmy Brown, an Ernie Davis, a Floyd Little, a Jim Nance, a Larry Csonka, what did you expect him to do? Yet, in his time, Old Ben was an innovator.

Try the scissors, a Schwartzwalder bread-and-butter play of the early Fifties. He took the unbalanced line of the single wing and used it with the T. How about the Broken I, with one back one step off center? At the time, the "I" was a radical offense by itself.

"The halfback option pass? Davis caught one in the 1960 Cotton Bowl, setting a record. Davis and an end named John Mackey teamed up on one for 71 yards in 1961. In 25 years under Schwartzwalder, in fact, Syracuse, a team that didn't pass, averaged 15 passes per game.

The forward pass was put into the continued 7t

OFFENSIVE

STANDOUTS

IN THE BIG-8 TO WATCH by Bob Hentzen, Topeka DAILY CAPITAL

Joe Washington may be a leading contender for the 1975 Heisman Trophy, but Oklahoma's elusive halfback insists he is being pragmatic, not modest, when he says his first concern is making All-Big Eight. He may be overstating his challenge, but it's true he is not the only exceptional runner in the Big Eight; just the most celebrated, and the most decorated.

With average speed but spectacular moves, Joe led the Big Eight last year in rushing (1,321 yards), scoring (84 points), average per carry (6.8 yards) and punt returns (332 yards), was second in total offense and third in the Heisman voting.

In a year when the Big Eight is deep in outstanding offensive players, especially at the skilled positions, the 180-pound Washington is the conference's most glamorous figure.

But the 51 other returning offensive starters include six of the seven running backs who followed Washington in rushing; six quarterbacks; four deluxe split ends; an All-America center; a tight end who is 6'-8"; a 250-pound guard who can run almost as fast as Washington; a junior tackle who may be headed for the Hall of Fame, and two prolific place-kickers.

The best of Washington's running back rivals are halfback Laverne Smith of Kansas and tailback Tony Galbreath of Missouri. They were second and third, respectively, in rushing last year and consensus All-Conference selections.

Smith may have the best combination of speed (4.4) and power (190 lbs.) in the Big Eight. He rushed for 1,181 yards and averaged 6.7 per carry last year. Bud Moore, Kansas' first year coach from Bear Bryant's staff at Alabama, says Smith "is an exceptionally talented athlete who would be a winner anywhere."

Laverne Smith of Kansas turning the corner

Galbreath, at 235 lbs. with 4.8 speed, was the catalyst in Missouri's strong finish. Moved from No. 2 fullback to No. 1 tailback in the fifth game, Galbreath rushed for 870 yards, scored eight touchdowns, caught 16 passes and was 5-for-5 passing. Three of his passes went for touchdowns.

Missouri's Al Onofrio, dean of Big Eight coaches and careful with words, thinks Galbreath "has the ability to be All-America. He is one of the finest big backs our conference has had."

The most gifted of the other halfbacks who started last year are Colorado's Billy Waddy, 183 lbs.; Oklahoma State's Terry Miller, 185 lbs., and Iowa State's Mike Williams, 188 lbs.

Waddy had the most impressive freshman season, in 1973, of any Big Eight rookie back since the freshman rule was restored three years ago. He was less comfortable last year with the methodical, punishing game Bill Mallory introduced. Nevertheless, he was sixth in rushing.

Superstars may also emerge from the ranks of those scheduled to become starters in 1975. Sophomore Elvis Peacock, who moves into the Oklahoma slot opposite Washington, is already being groomed as a future Heisman possibility. He has extraordinary speed.

Kansas State coach Ellis Rainsberger thinks slotback Mike Harris, versatile transfer from Tampa, will be "one of the best athletes in the country." Junior college transfer Tony Reed of Colorado is Mallory's type of tailback. Bigger than Waddy, and equally fast, Reed is considered a bonafide threat to dislodge Waddy.

Bill Campfield, who gives Kansas' wishbone a second flyer, and Nebraska's Monte Anthony, who as a freshman started much of last season, also merit watching.

Colorado's Terry Kunz, 215 lbs., may be the best of a fullback corps that includes Tony Davis of Nebraska and Oklahoma's most unsung player, Mike Littrell. Fourth in rushing last year Littrell ran for 827 yards, with a 6.7 average. Kunz was seventh with 693 yards and 4.6.

Steve Davis of Oklahoma is considered the consummate Wishbone quarterback. Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer thinks, and Darrell Royal of Texas agrees, the Wishbone has not produced an operative who could both pass and run as effectively as Davis.

college game as an outgrowth over concern about the brutality of the game. It is one of the little-known vignettes of the game. In 1905, a committee met in New York to "save football." Headed by the immortal Walter Camp, the committee sought to open up the game, making it a less dangerous activity. Serious thought was given to widening the gridiron by 40 feet, making it more a game of rugby than football as we know it today.

There was one problem. One of the newly-built college stadiums in the East, had permanent stands. It would have cost too much money to tear them down. Instead, the committee legalized the forward pass and the sport became an American tradition.

Imperfections? Well, the games on the more moderate, less ambitious level are filled with them. Yet, if they are flaws, they make for wild, weird games. One game, in particular, I covered last September stands out. The score, in the fog off Narragansett Bay in Kingston, R.I., was the University of Rhode Island 48, Northeastern 36.

In the second quarter, alone, the ball changed hands 15 times. Paul Ryan, the URI quarterback, threw touchdown passes of 9, 52, 19 and 33 yards. Mike Budrow, a Northeastern defensive end, twice took the ball right out of the hands of Ryan, once rambling 50 yards for a touchdown. "In 23 years," said URI coach Jack Gregory, "I've never been involved in a game full of so many weird plays."

This, precisely, is what makes it so much fun, so invigorating to cover. No matter where the game is played in any part of the country, it is interesting and unpredictable. As one coach says, if somebody steals his playbook, it matters not. "They could study our plans," he says, perhaps with tongue in cheek, "but they wouldn't know what to prepare for."

The same coach was asked by a writer at a press conference if he would state the major premise, minor premise and conclusion of his system. "That's a false basic premise," he said, "so I'm not going to answer you in syllogistic form."

With Spring football, what Harvard

tries to do would be that much more efficient. Without it, there is the unpredictability, often compounded by the vagaries of New England weather. Writing in The Harvard Bulletin, an editor observed about Restic, "It was almost like watching General Francis Marion, the Swamp Fox, in the act of inventing guerrilla warfare."

The offense is based on nine formations, with the terms used to describe them (King, Queen, Jack, etc.) covering the number of flankers and set-backs and where they are placed. From the sets, Harvard runs seven play series (sweep, belly, veer, toss, fire, dive, counter), employing eight blocking schemes. With six potential receivers, there are 42 pass patterns.

The Ivy League itself reflects the mood and the openness of the college game. With Restic its foremost tactician, there is the Wishbone at Yale, the Veer at Penn, the multiplicity at Dartmouth. Before Bob Blackman left Dartmouth for Illinois and the Big Ten, he had put in a system that demanded thought, dedication and precise execution.

I always remember one Ivy game. With one team in front after a late touchdown, the other team gathered in the ensuing kickoff. With everyone apparently picking up the kick return guy, he suddenly stopped and fired a cross-field lateral. With a wall being set up in front of him, he came within inches of busting it all the way for a touchdown.

With Brian Dowling and Calvin Hill around, Yale was the ultimate in charismatic football in the late Sixties. As Dowling scrambled and ran around, Yale built an offense that used his unpredictability to great benefit. If you read Doonesbury, the cartoon strip that won Garry Trudeau a Pulitzer, the "B.D." in the football suit is Brian Dowling.

There is so much to the college game played from East to West and North to South with its option attacks and stunting defenses. To those who spend their lives writing about the pros, there is sometimes a tendency to look down their noses at college football. They think the only thing that matters is how hard a Larry Csonka runs, how devastating a Dick Butkus tackles.

That is perfectly all right, I guess, but I would not trade a delightful Saturday afternoon looking out over the Hudson River from atop Michie Stadium at West Point, a cold dreary November day in Harvard Stadium watching Harvard play Yale or, yes, even the chance to see Amherst play Williams for anything. And I know other writers who feel the same way about college football in the South, Midwest, West and throughout the country. For me, and for them, a college game remains a personal love affair.

Davis was eighth in Big Eight rushing last year with 659 yards and passed for 601 yards. He had 11 touchdown passes on 26 completions. His touchdown total was only one less than Big Eight leader David Humm of Nebraska, who had 112 more attempts.

A licensed Baptist minister who leases and pilots a twin-engine Cessna 310 to fulfill a pressing schedule of revivals and speaking engagements, Davis has halfback speed (4.6), fullback strength (192 lbs.) and finesse, plus a capacity to excel in pressure games. Oklahoma was 21-0-1 in Davis' first two years as a starter.

The Big Eight's best passing quarterback is Missouri's Steve Pisarkiewicz, a rangy 6'-3" junior. Missouri watchers say the Tigers have not had such an arm since the late Paul Christman (1939-41).

David Williams of Colorado may be the best of four quarterbacks who will be challenged to retain starting status. A potential star if he plays quarterback is Kansas' Nolan Cromwell, who ranks with Colorado's Dave Logan as an athlete. Cromwell was an All-Conference free safety, Big Eight high hurdles champion and an All-Star schoolboy quarterback.

For a conference that makes modest use of passing, the Big Eight is blessed with perhaps the four best split ends it has ever had at one time.

Tinker Owens, Oklahoma's sure-handed, acrobatic senior, is the most publicized. Switzer thinks Tinker plays his position as well as his Heisman-winning brother Steve played tailback. An unsuspecting hero as a freshman, Owens has dropped only one pass in three years.

Yet, his understudy, the faster and bigger Billy Brooks, may be Oklahoma's best athlete. Owens starts because he has better hands and is more disciplined in running routes. But most NFL scouts think Brooks is a first round draft prospect.

Certainly, one of the best athletes in the conference, and possibly the country, is Dave Logan of Colorado. The 6'-6" Logan was outstanding at wingback in 1973 but suffered a disabling knee injury last year. Now he is supposedly fit for his move to split end, where Mallory thinks "he should be better than at wingback." A starter in basketball and drafted in baseball by Cincinnati, Logan has more potential than Colorado-ex Boyd Dowler, most pro scouts believe.

Iowa State, though, thinks the most exciting split end is Luther Blue, a junior who averaged 17 yards on 26 receptions and was second nationally in kickoff returns, with a 32.8 average.

These skilled position superstars will be operating behind big, experienced lines. Colorado's is the biggest, the most experienced and perhaps the best. It averages, 6'-5", 255 lbs. "We have the biggest offensive line we've ever had, but so do most teams," says Missouri's Onofrio. "It's amazing how much ability these big linemen have."

This ability is best illustrated at center, where four seniors are endorsed by their coaches for All-Conference. Nebraska's Rik Bonness, 221 lbs., was consensus All-America last year and Tom Osborne says, "he's the best we've ever had here."

But Oklahoma State Coach Jim Stanley thinks Gary Chlouber, 223 lbs. is better. A converted guard, Chlouber was drafted as a starter two years ago when all the Cowboys' centers were injured.

Colorado's Pete Brock, 6'-6" and 248 lbs. is "as good as anybody in our conference," Mallory believes. Missouri's Mike Owens, 234 lbs., carries the same recommendation from Onofrio.

Terry Webb of Oklahoma is the Big Eight's premier guard. A 190-pound schoolboy who gained over 50 pounds without sacrificing his 4.85 speed, played in the shadows for two years of All-America teammate and guard John Roush. Privately, Oklahoma coaches thought Webb was better. As a pulling guard on Washington's sweeps, he is a compelling blocker who amazes pro scouts by running almost as fast as Washington.

Bob Bos of Iowa State may be the tallest guard (6'-6") in the country, and one of the best. Colorado's Leon White and Kansas State's Floyd Dorsey, who started as a freshman, are considered All-Conference caliber. Oklahoma sophomore Jamie Melen-dez' potential is rated comparable to Webb.

Though only a junior, 6'-6", 290-pound Mike Vaughan of Oklahoma is one of the top four tackle prospects in the country. Vaughan played one-on-one against Outland Trophy favorite LeRoy Selmon in spring practice "and got a tie," Switzer said. He added, "He's going to be the best we've ever had. He may be on his way to the Hall of Fame."

Mark Koncar, 266 lbs. is considered the best of Colorado's linemen "and as good as any tackle in our conference last year," Mallory states. Missouri's Morris Towns, 265 lbs. and Kansas' Dave Scott, 270 lbs. are highly regarded.

Colorado's 6'-8" Don Hasselbeck is the most qualified tight end. "Everybody in the secondary prays Colorado won't throw him the ball," declares OSU's Stanley Larry Mushinskie of Nebraska and Dave Greenwood of Iowa State are the only other established tight ends.

Tony DiRienzo of Oklahoma, soccer-style kicker and an exchange student from Brazil, is the leading scorer among the seven returning place-kickers. He kicked 39 extra points without missing last year.

O-State's frail Abby Daigle may be the best of the conventional kickers, according to professional scouts. Others are more accurate, but Daigle is unsurpassed for distance.

Mike Coyle, hero of Nebraska's Sugar Bowl comeback against Florida, is also capable and Iowa State thinks Scott Kollman is the equal of its departed standout, Tom Goedjen.

Obviously, the Big Eight is not lacking in people or methods for lighting scoreboards.

THE NERVE CENTER

THE PRESS BOX

OF THE GAME

There was something electrifying about the game that seemed to make everyone in the stands immune to the cold of the crisp November day. College football is like that. Stimulating. The overcast sky and an occasional drop of rain went unnoticed as State, trailing by six, began a desperate fourth quarter drive. A conference title and a bowl bid hung in the balance. To heck with the weather.

Still, Fred Fann couldn't help but glance over his shoulder now and then and wonder why he hadn't majored in journalism instead of accounting. "Ah, to be a sportswriter," he thought. "Those guys have it made, up there where it's nice and warm. And imagine, getting paid to see a game from a free seat that's removed from the wind, rain and some clumsy guy spilling a soda all over your new topcoat."

Fred Fann, like thousands of spectators, often wondered what went on up there in the press box behind all that glass. Must be exciting.

Scoop Inksmeat was accustomed to big game drama. His 18 years on the college beat had calloused him against temptations to cheer or show emotion, even as State, the team he had covered all those years, kept its drive alive with a third down completion. He remembered all too well that first year on the job and his first college football assignment. He had let loose with a yell as somebody was returning the opening kickoff 92 yards. He remembered all those icy stares from the veteran writers and he recalled wanting to crawl under his old Underwood portable.

No, the press box is no place for cheerleading, as he had learned so embarrassingly. It is a place to work. Removed from the crowd and the distractions of the noise and merriment, members of the news media are able to concentrate uninterrupted as they earn their living.

Scoop Inksmeat, nonetheless, couldn't help but "pull" for State. Always easier to write a "winning" story instead of one describing disappointment. Besides, there was that trip South for a week for bowl revelry, all expenses paid, of course.

The stadium public address announcer kept the fans advised, supplementing the information on the scoreboard. "Johnson the ball carrier . . . tackle by Swanson," Fred Fann heard as he glanced at the scoreboard. Second down, five, ball on the

20. "Wish I were up there with those guys," Fred thought. "The view must be great, better even than being here on the 50, five rows up."

Scoop Inksmeat made another note on his legal pad as the press box PA blared the information: "Stevens the ball carrier . . . tackle by Jordan . . . gain of three . . . ball on the 17 . . . third and two."

Scoop Inksmeat peered through his binoculars, wishing he had a closer vantage point and wondering why press boxes had to be higher than the worst seat in the stadium. He didn't catch the ball carrier's name, but no matter. If he wanted to use it, the play-by-play sheet would have it all. In fact, the play-by-play sheet, mimeographed and handed out moments after every quarter, would have everything pertinent to the game story. Far cry from the old days when you had to keep track of every play yourself and figure your own statistics. Now, you are handed halftime and end-of-game sheets containing team as well as individual statistics. Passes attempted by the quarterbacks, completions, yardage. Everything.

"Attention, press," the press box PA blared. "Everyone wishing to go to the locker rooms, make sure your field passes are visible. The first elevator will leave in two minutes."

Another great convenience, Scoop Inksmeier thought, remembering how he once had to climb 87 steps lugging his typewriter and binoculars. That was before press box elevators came into vogue. And in those days, if you wanted a quote or two from the coaches, you had to walk down to the locker rooms and back up to the press box to write your story. Now, a "pool" writer or a member of the home team's PR staff would gather several quotes and phone them to the press box where they would be either announced on the press box PA system or mimeographed and handed out.

Scoop Inksmeier decided to use the "pool" quotes. Besides, he was on a tight deadline and couldn't spare the time to go downstairs. He'd stay in the press box and write his story, munching on the sandwich he had picked up in the press box buffet line at halftime. Some press boxes included elaborate hot food catering with soft drinks, milk and coffee. Other press boxes served a handout sandwich or nothing at all. It depended on a school's budget.

"Wilcox to Haley . . . gain of five . . . the tackle by Stevens . . . first down at the 12," the press box PA announcer said tersely. Outside, the crowd was in a frenzy, sensing a victory and that long-awaited bowl invitation.

Scoop Inksmeier wondered how long it had been since State had last played in a bowl game. Was it five years or six? He saw Jerry Freemile, State's director of sports information, walking past and he asked him the question.

"It was 1969, Scoop," Jerry Freemile answered. "We'll be handing out a press release with all that information in it if we win. Let me know if you need anything else."

Jerry had arrived in the press box four hours before kickoff time. Before that he had spent three hours in the office, making sure all the press credential requests had been filled. Envelopes would be left at the press gate for writers and broadcasters who had filed their requests too late to be handled by mail. The importance of the game had attracted a larger than usual number of media representatives along with delegates from several bowl games and a dozen pro scouts. The news media came first and Jerry made sure they had the better seats.

He also had made sure the field phones in the coaches' booths were in working order. Right now, in the heat of the battle, those phones were sizzling. Three assistant coaches from State and four from the rival team (the number usually varies from two to five) were closeted in separate booths. In each booth, one man was shouting suggested plays and formations to another assistant coach at the other end of the line on the field. Another coach was peering through binoculars and another was making diagrams, complete with X's and O's.

The scoreboard operator immediately punched out new digits and the scoreboard read: "State 21, Upstate U., 20."

Fred Fann, jumping up and down in a sea of cavorting fans, watched as the clock ticked down. The final horn was barely audible above the crowd noise and Fred, caught up in the excitement, was glad he could begin his celebration immediately. "Poor stiff," he said, glancing toward the press box, "glad I don't have to hang around up there and work."

Scoop Inksmeier instinctively began pounding his typewriter, describing to his readers how State had gallantly fought from behind to earn its second bowl bid in five years. Or was it six? "Hey, Jerry Freemile!"

Jerry Freemile was busy handing out a press release he had written the day before, not knowing if it would ever be read. The release included ticket information, the team's pre-bowl workout schedule and travel plans.

Scoop Inksmeier finished his game story, then added the final paragraph to his "sidebar" feature using the "pool" quotes and inserting a few facts gleaned from the many stat sheets at his disposal.

Finally, three hours after the final horn, the last writer gone, Jerry Freemile packed up his remaining programs and brochures, collected several sets of stats sheets and made his way toward the exit. The stadium was quiet, dark, deserted. His 10-hour day completed, Jerry breathed a sigh of relief and wondered how it would be attending a game as a sportswriter or a fan.

The fans eye view of the press box--what mysteries lurk within?

Chevette.

Chevrolet's new kind of American car.

- Chevette is international in concept, design and heritage. It incorporates many engineering features proved around the world.
- Its wheelbase is 94.3 inches. And overall length is 158.7 inches.
- Its turning circle, compared with that of any foreign or domestic car, is among the smallest.
- It gives you more head room and front leg room than some leading foreign cars.
- It can carry cargo up to four feet wide.
- It's basically a metric car. And, as you know, the metric system is on its way to becoming the standard American measurement.
- It has a standard 1.4-litre engine, with a 1.6-litre engine available (except on the Scooter).
- It comes with a self-service booklet.
- It's a two-door hatchback, with seating for four in the standard Chevette, Rally, Sport and Woody versions. A two-passenger version, the Scooter, is also available.
- It is sold and serviced by every Chevrolet dealer in America—all 6,030 of them.

THE ANCIENT TEQUILA ARTS OF MONTEZUMA.

The reign of Montezuma was the golden age of the Aztecs. And, according to Montezuma Tequila, the golden age of tequila drinking.

The Aztecs drank a forerunner of tequila. It was a sacred drink. And was symbolized in many Aztec religious artifacts. Like the sacred Aztec calendar called the Sun Stone.

Within the Sun Stone's inner ring are twenty symbols; one for each of the 20 days in the Aztec week. These symbols can also be viewed as suggesting what kind of tequila drink it might be appropriate to serve on each day.

Tequila Stinger. A lizard symbolizes the fourth day of the Aztec week; representing cunning and quickness. The drink: 1½ oz. Montezuma Tequila, ½ oz. green creme de menthe; shake with crushed ice, strain and serve in chilled cocktail glass.

CUETZPALLIN

Bloody Maria. The first day of the Aztec week is symbolized by a crocodile; representing alert and aggressive beginnings for all endeavors. The drink: 1½ oz. Montezuma Tequila, 3 oz. tomato juice, ½ oz. lemon juice, dash of salt and pepper, dash of hot sauce, dash of worcestershire; shake with cracked ice, strain into 6 oz. glass.

Tequila Manhattan. The serpent symbolizes the fifth day of the Aztec week; representing colorful sophistication. The drink: 2 parts Gold Montezuma Tequila, 1 part sweet vermouth, squeeze of lime; serve on rocks in old-fashioned glass, garnish with cherry and orange slice.

Tequila Sunrise. A monkey symbolizes the eleventh day of the Aztec week; representing high-spirited social fun. The drink: 1½ oz. Montezuma Tequila, ½ oz.

lime juice, 3 oz. orange juice, ½ oz. grenadine; pour into tall glass with ice, garnish with lime.

Aztec Punch. Herbs symbolize the twelfth day of the Aztec week; representing variety and tasty adventures. The drink: 1 gallon Montezuma Tequila, juice of 12 lemons, 4 (16 oz.) cans grapefruit juice, 2 quarts strong tea, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 1½ oz. bitters; pour into large punch bowl, let stand in refrigerator 2 hours; stir well before serving; makes 124 cups.

The academic ★ ★ ★ all- american

The Academic All-American Football Team is the most important special project the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) work on during the year, according to Phil Langan, editor of the organization's monthly publication.

How did it get started?

It all began at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, in the summer of 1952. For the preceding five years, SMU had been the only institution in the country to be represented each year on the consensus All-American teams and the only one to have a player named on the UPI first team each of these seasons.

But by 1952 Doak Walker had left SMU to become a star with the Detroit Lions; Kyle Rote had started his illustrious career with the New York Giants; Fred Benners, who had thrown four touchdown passes to defeat Ohio State in 1950 and the same number to win from Notre Dame in 1951, was in law school; and Don Meredith was still a schoolboy in Mount Vernon, Texas.

It did not look as if SMU would have a consensus All-American in 1952, so Lester Jordan, the school's Sports Information Director (SID) as well as business manager of athletics, was looking for another means of publicizing the school's football team.

Upon checking, he discovered that an unusually large number of his team had made excellent grades the preceding year. He decided to capitalize on this information.

As a former sports editor of a Texas daily newspaper, Jordan knew the project would have more news value if it were dramatized by forming a team instead of merely listing the names of the scholar-athletes. He also knew that a story with an SMU angle only would have limited appeal, so he wrote the other SIDs in the Southwest Conference for a list of their top football players who also made good grades. He then mailed a story on the 1952 Southwest Conference pre-season academic team to the news outlets.

The project met with instant approval from the news media and from educators, so Jordan started thinking about the post-season team. In October Frank Tolbert, who was covering the SMU beat for the Dallas Morning News, suggested that Jordan select an All-American academic team.

To test the idea, Jordan wrote leading sportswriters and sportscasters over the country, explaining that the primary purposes of the project were to give recognition to football stars who excel in the classroom; to dramatize for the general public the fact that players are interested in academic attainments also; and to impress upon high school athletes the importance attached to studies by college players.

Grantland Rice, then the dean of American sportswriters, volunteered his help, and Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner and currently chairman of the Honors Court of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, nominated two Vanderbilt players. Bert McGrane of the Des Moines Register and Tribune said he was glad to give an assist to the "brains" team and wrote of the scholarly achievements of Bill Fenton of the University of Iowa and Max Burkett of Iowa State, two team members. Hugh Fullerton of the Associated Press told of the fine classroom records of Mitch Price of Columbia and Frank McPhee of Princeton.

Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune liked the idea and fellow reporters Wilfrid Smith and Ed Prell helped promote the team. Leo H. Petersen, Ed Sainsbury, and Ed Fite of the United Press aided the project, and Whitney Martin and Harold Ratliff of the AP devoted columns to the team. Both Irving Marsh of the New York Herald-Tribune and Furman Bisher of the Atlanta Journal were generous in the space they gave to the team.

The highly-encouraging response received from the media and from leading SIDs resulted in the first Academic All-American team appearing in December, 1952. The play it received from coast to coast indicated that it would become a regular feature of the football season.

Fortunately for the success of the project, several players on the early teams went on to make names in football annals as well as in business and the professions. Dick Chapman of Rice, a member of the 1952 and 1953 first academic teams, was the first round draft choice of the Detroit Lions, and later earned his PhD. in nuclear physics. Michigan State's John Wilson, also of the original 1952 team, became a Rhodes scholar and later president of Wells College.

In 1954 the three senior backs on the academic eleven—Dick Moegle of Rice, Allan Ameche of Wisconsin, and Joe Heap of Notre Dame were also first round choices. Heap, a devastating player, later developed a career in personnel and is now an executive with Shell Oil Corporation. In 1956 the first team academic eleven had Jerry Tubbs of Oklahoma at center, Lynn Dawson of Purdue at quarterback, and Jack Pardee of Texas A & M at fullback—three men whose names are still important in football circles.

For seven years Jordan selected the team, but in 1959 when CoSIDA and the American Peoples Encyclopedia became joint sponsors of the project, all sportswriters and sportscasters were invited to vote for the team. More than 600 voted and each received a copy of the APE Yearbook. Players making the All-American team or the various all-Conference academic selections were given encyclopedia sets.

Later, the American Heritage Life Insurance Company replaced APE as a co-sponsor and Ted Emery became the co-ordinator.

Among the sports information leaders who made major contributions to the project in its early days were Wayne Duke, now commissioner of the Big Ten; Fred Stabley of Michigan State; Wilbur Evans, now a top official of the Cotton Bowl and the Southwest Athletic Conference; and Wiles Hallock, executive director of the Pac-8. Duke, who was associated with the NCAA at that time, arranged for national television coverage on the "TODAY" show. Stabley and Evans were presidents of CoSIDA when it became a co-sponsor. Hallock, who was then SID at the University of Wyoming, was chairman of the committee that named Jordan recipient of CoSIDA's first distinguished award, thereby giving prestige to the academic team.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

Lester Jordan began his career in 1922 when he became Sports Information Director (SID) at Trinity College. In 1936 he moved to SMU where in 48 years he served in various capacities including Head of the Journalism Dept., Varsity Tennis Coach, Athletic Business Manager, SID, Assistant Athletic Director and Special Assistant. Now retired (1974), Lester lives with his wife in Vallejo, Ca.

Others who gained football fame after starring in the classroom in the fifties included Bart Starr of Alabama, Raymond Berry and Jerry Mays of SMU, Fran Tarkenton and Zeke Bratkowski of Georgia, Sam Huff of West Virginia, Tommy McDonald of Oklahoma, Bob White of Ohio State, Donn Moomaw of UCLA, Lance Alworth of Arkansas, Frank Ryan of Rice, Jim Phillips of Auburn, and Joe Walton and John Guzik of Pitt.

Of the eight former players who are to be inducted into the National Football Foundation's college football Hall of Fame this December, only three played after the academic team was originated. Two of these—Alan Ameche of the University of Wisconsin and Pete Dawkins of the U.S. Military Academy—were academic first-team selections.

Now Fred Stabley, veteran sports information director at Michigan State University, is the project coordinator. Each year he encloses in the October issue of the CoSIDA Digest a nomination blank, asking the SIDs to send in a list of their regular players who have a "B" or better average. He then sends ballots to the SIDs at the end of the season and they vote for the team. Stabley compiles the results and announces the team in February.

THE BIG-8's BEST IN DEFENSE

by Bill Conners, Tulsa WORLD

Headlines around the Big Eight go to the Joe Washingtons and David Humms, but it's no coincidence the big winners in this conference are the teams playing the best defense.

Oklahoma, for instance, has yielded no more than 20 points in any game in the last three years—an era of boxcar scores. Players like Selmon in the defensive trenches have had something to do with the Sooners' 32-1-1 record in that span.

Or take Nebraska. The Huskers' defensive platoon, the Black Shirts, has choked off five straight bowl foes with a total of four touchdowns. The victims include the elite of college football—LSU, Alabama, Notre Dame, Texas and Florida.

Other schools cannot claim that kind of consistent success, but it is not because the coaches don't realize the importance of defense.

Colorado's Bill Mallory came to the Big Eight in 1974 from Miami, Ohio, where four of his teams finished in the nation's top six defensively. Mallory suspected he had a problem and his worst fears were realized when his Buffs were punctured for 28 points a game.

He doesn't believe that will happen again, especially since Charlie Johnson, a 6'-2", 282-pound defensive tackle, changed his mind about attending Texas A&M and enrolled at Colorado. Johnson could turn the Buffs' defense around. The All-American junior college star (Tyler, Tex.) boasts 4.8 speed in the 40, exceptional strength and lateral movement, plus maturity gained from two years in the Army.

Charley is not the only newcomer arriving on the Big Eight scene with impressive credentials. When Tampa suddenly dropped football, Iowa State head man Earle Bruce, who used to coach there, landed linebacker Greg Pittman. At 6'-3", 218 lbs with 4.7 speed, Greg is rated one of the best pro prospects in the land and his name appears on most All-American checklists.

Two other Tampa defenders, end Otis Rodgers and cornerback James Randolph, came to Ames with Pittman to give Bruce a better feeling about his 1975 defense. "This will help us tremendously," he said. "Not only are they fine football prospects, but they're playing in the positions where we need replacements the most."

These transfers, of course, will have to prove they can play defense Big Eight style. Plenty of others are around who have earned their merit badges.

The list starts with the awesome Selmon brothers, Leroy and Dewey, who combined with departed All-American linebacker Rod Shoate to give Barry Switzer's Sooners one of the nation's most respected defenses in 1974. The only question about the Selmons is in regard to which one is better — Leroy, Dewey or Lucious, the noseguard who finished in 1973.

"You take all the qualities you'd like a tackle to have and Leroy's got 'em," says Rex Norris, the assistant in charge of the defensive line. Leroy, 6'-2", 260 lbs., with 4.8 speed, led the Sooner tacklers last season with 125, 18 of them behind the line of scrimmage.

"Dewey Selmon should be in the NFL; maybe they could stop him," said Baylor offensive tackle Gary Gregory after dueling him. Switched from tackle to middle guard after the 1974 opener, the 6'-1", 253-pound Dewey was in on 104 stops, 8 of them in the opponents' backfields.

Both brothers made All-America teams as well as the All-Big Eight, and loom as cinch repeaters, barring injury, as seniors.

Four other regulars — tackle Anthony Bryant, end Jimbo Elrod, cornerback Sidney Brown and free safety Zac Henderson — also return from an Oklahoma defensive platoon that limited opponents to 8.4 points a game (fifth nationally).

It's rare indeed when anybody takes liberties with Nebraska's defense and 1975 looms as no exception.

The Cornhuskers, like Oklahoma, lost their linebacking corps, but coach Tom Osborne's cupboard is always stocked with capable replacements. And he has a splendid nucleus to build around.

It includes 6'-3", 244-pound Ron Pruitt, who will be a three-year tackle starter; 6'-5", 275-pound strongman

THE DEFENSIVE SECONDARY

HOW THEY OPERATE THE ZONE

Since the advent of extensive football coverage on television, followed by the technological innovation of "instant replay" and the resulting evolution of expert analysis, the average football fan has had the opportunity to become more sophisticated in his knowledge of the game. The following's purpose is, hopefully, to add to the spectator's understanding of the zone pass defense as it is played in the college game today.

A majority of college football teams will be using the "Okie" (also called "fifty," "5-2," or "3-4") defense in the 1975 season. So any discussion of pass defense on the college level requires a basic familiarity with this common alignment. The obvious characteristic of this defense (see diagram A) is its "odd-man" look, with a "noseguard" playing directly across from the offensive center. Some teams add two tackles and two ends to make five men on the line of scrimmage with just two linebackers (the true 5-2), while others just add a pair of defensive ends and utilize four linebackers. As the diagram shows, the outside linebackers (in what is technically a 3-4 alignment) are actually so close to the line of scrimmage that for all practical purposes it's the same as the 5-2. The major advantage of this three-lineman scheme is that it potentially puts eight men into pass defense zones.

The inside linebackers play the gaps created by the defensive ends lining up opposite the offensive tackles. The four defensive backs assume their positions depending on which side of the field the offense puts its tight end—in other words, the "strong side" of its line. The strong safety usually mirrors the tight end to the strong side of the field.

From this basic alignment, a 6-2 zone (as diagrammed in B) can be employed. That usually happens on first down plays or in short yardage situations when a run or short pass

Positioning for the defensive back is most important. On short pass situations, it has long been a rule to keep close to the receiver between him and the quarterback.

seems to be the likely call of the offense. The two "flat" zones (or short, outside zones) usually are covered by defensive backs, while linebackers normally cover the inside "curl" and "hook" zones. With just two remaining backs each taking responsibility for half of the deep area, the one major vulnerability of this formation becomes apparent. What happens if the offense sends more than two receivers deep? Answer: someone who also has short pass responsibility must drop back. For this particular strategy to be successful, the defense's individual players must have the speed for effective long pass coverage.

So the 6-2 zone defense becomes a distinct advantage when the opposing team's offense does not have receivers skilled enough to beat their defenders deep. But if the offense does have enough talent at the receiver position, then a 5-3 zone more likely fills the defensive bill.

In the 5-3 zone (see diagram C), one of the cornerbacks will drop back to help out with deep coverage, making each deep man responsible for just 1/3 of the field rather than 1/2. However, this play requires leaving one of the six short zones open. Defenses most often choose the weak side flat to vacate since this is the most difficult area for the offense to reach effectively.

The basic "Okie" defense, used by a majority of college teams, utilizes a noseguard over center and in this case 2 ends and four linebackers, called by some a "3-4".

DEFENSE

Mike Fultz, the Big Eight's Sophomore of the Year, also a tackle; 6'-1", 208-pound end Bob Martin, a three-year starter and all-Big Eight pick in 1974; and defensive back, Wonderful Monds. Middle guard John Lee and cornerback Jim Burrow also are returning starters.

Missouri, another tradition-rich defensive team, will be severely tested by a non-conference schedule that includes Alabama, Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois. The Tigers have only four defensive starters returning and coach Al Onofrio observes, "We have more size, but we will be younger than last year. Fortunately, we have experience where it's needed most."

That secondary includes Bob Fitzgerald and Kenny Downing, a tough little cookie who has been starting for two years and toting back punts and kickoffs in his spare time.

Missouri always has fielded good defensive ends—not always the biggest, but the type that keep coming at you — and 6'-1", 210-pound Bob McRoberts fits this mold. He'll be starting for the third straight year. Linebacker Tom Hodge was a top hand in the spring game.

Oklahoma State ranked second in the league in overall defensive statistics last year. Even though seven of those starters have departed, Coach Jim Stanley doesn't believe there will be much dropoff.

That's because of the presence of Darnell Myers, a 160-pound burner (4.4 speed) at free safety; linebacker Brent Robinson and pro-size tackles

Phillip Dokes (6'-5", 256 lbs.) and James White (6'-5", 251 lbs.). Dokes, just a junior, was All-Big Eight and judged the outstanding defensive player in the Fiesta Bowl. White wasn't quite as spectacular as Dokes, but perhaps was more consistent.

While Charlie Johnson and some other J.C. transfers are the keys in Colorado's hopes for defensive respectability, Mallory has other athletes on whom he can count. He calls cornerback Mike McCoy and defensive end Troy Archer (6'-3", 219 lbs.) two of the best in the Big Eight Conference at their positions.

Quick tackle Bob Simpson (6'-5", 250-pounds) is probably the best of the rest.

The proven dandies at Iowa State are 6'-5", 255-pound tackle Mike Stensrud — "one of the best anywhere," says Bruce — end Ray King and safety Sy Bassett. Stensrud was the league's top freshman defender in 1974.

The two Kansas schools, although sharing the cellar in 1974 and hardly defensive giants, boast some talent to be envied.

Kansas State, for instance, is the only club that won't be breaking in at least one new linebacker. New coach Ellis Rainsberger (off the Wisconsin staff) will go with junior Carl Pennington, a starter since he was a freshman, and sophomore Gary Spani, who was named the league's Defensive Player of the Week after his first collegiate start against Missouri.

Oklahoma's awesome Dewey Selmon

They allow Rainsberger the luxury of moving quick 5'-10", 228-pound Theopilis Bryant, a two-year linebacker standout, to nose guard and Roy Shine from nose guard to tackle. These switches were spring successes.

Kansas' strong suit is its secondary, but problems elsewhere may force new coach Bud Moore to rob that area. He's giving strong safety Nolan Cromwell a shot at being the Jayhawks' wishbone quarterback and cornerback Eddie Lewis a chance as a wide receiver.

Kurt Knoff, twice All-Big Eight with a reputation for vicious hitting, returns at safety with Steve Taylor at cornerback. This foursome has been Kansas' starting secondary since the Liberty Bowl year of 1973. The Jayhawks are proud of 6'-6", 255-pound tackle Mike Butler and end Les Barnes, but the latter may be sidelined by a ruptured disc.

Coach Moore, who came to Lawrence as Alabama's offensive coordinator, is aware that you win in the Big Eight through defense.

"The first thing you want to do is keep from getting beat," he said the day he was hired. "You do that through your kicking game. Then through your defense. And then by scoring from your defense. Actually, there are more ways to score defensively than offensively."

That kind of talk might get a new coach in dutch with the alumni some places, but not in the Big Eight where defense and the people who play it are the big items.

The 5-3 zone is more conservative than two-deep coverage because it provides better protection against the long pass; and, as with any zone, the linebackers are deep-conscious, which makes it even more difficult for the offense to go for the "bomb."

Several other advantages of the zone defense should be mentioned. Zone, as opposed to man-to-man, pass defense, takes away the effectiveness of quick curl and hook patterns for the offense. With four linebackers available for pass coverage, not only is the middle of the defensive area well covered, but protection is provided for any weaknesses in the sec-man, in a deep fly pattern, for example, does the defender have to follow the receiver's fakes closely.

But in spite of the increasing popularity of zone defenses, there are distinct disadvantages to a zone defense. It leaves the sideline area 12 to 15 yards upfield vulnerable, and offenses can consistently gain ground with short passes to the running backs flaring out of the backfield. As television commentators love to tell you, the way to beat a zone defense is to hit the "seams," or those areas around the border lines of the zones of defensive responsibility. So while the three-deep zone defense does a back swinging out of the backfield to become a third receiver on the strong side of the field, either the cornerback or the nearest linebacker (who may have been on the tight end) will have to cover the short pass off this pattern. So it's essential that each defender know his assignment in any given circumstance and react quickly and decisively to his area of responsibility.

A good rush on the passer also plays an important role in pass defense whether it's man-to-man or zone. The defensive linemen and any blitzing linebackers cannot allow the quarterback a leisurely view of his

Diagram B

The 6-2 zone is used usually in short-yardage situations when a run or short pass is suspected. For a defense to get caught using this alignment in the wrong situation, it would mean instant touchdown.

Diagram C

In the 5-3 zone one cornerback drops back into the secondary to give assistance with deep coverage.

Diagram D

When more than one receiver (above, the tight end and flanker) enter a zone the effect on the defensive backfield is called "flooding." In the diagram the strong safety needs help from the free safety.

ondary. A cornerback without blinding speed can still operate effectively in a zone defense since he can be assigned to a short zone and not have to follow a receiver deep.

The zone also allows the secondary to disregard most of the fakes a receiver might make. If the zone is working right, fakes by the receiver don't serve much purpose since the defenders are responsible for an area first and a man second, and then react when the ball is thrown. The defender doesn't have to worry about losing his man to a fake since that means the receiver has probably entered another defender's area. Only when the zone has become man-to-great job of preventing long pass completions, it can find difficulty preventing short pass completions that gain just enough yardage to make a first down and keep a drive going.

Diagram D shows what happens when the offense "floods" one defender's zone. In this example, both the tight end and the flanker run a pattern into the strong safety's deep zone. The strong safety needs help either from his free safety or his cornerback since covering two receivers in a deep zone requires more than one defender. The cornerback must know his job and react quickly to whichever area he's assigned, as does the free safety. With the offensive half-receivers running their patterns. Enough pressure on the passer will force him to throw the ball away, throw it too soon or off balance, or keep it and be sacked.

The mention of blitzing linebackers could open the door to a long dissertation on the various combinations of rushes that a defensive signal-caller might use, but there isn't time here to detail every conceivable defensive maneuver. Suffice it to say that football strategy often can become almost as complicated as a game of chess, and football coaches need the type of mind that can easily recognize old problems and quickly discover solutions to new ones.

MANNING THE PHONES

The key to communicating with the bench

It's another one of those cliffhangers. Here it is the fourth quarter and the game is so unpredictable and high-scoring that the winner cannot logically be determined. Suddenly a trick play appears which leads to a touchdown and the scoring team uses the momentum to win.

Where did that play come from? Who called it? Unbeknownst to many, the play came from the assistant coaches stationed on headsets in the press box. They spotted a potential weakness from above, relayed the debility to the field. This tactic worked for a score. After the game, the head coach will probably give credit to his aide who called the winning play.

The communication between the press box and the sideline is a very widely utilized strategem used as much on offense as on defense. Phones make it possible for more strategy to be employed faster than would be possible with all the coaches on the field.

At many schools offensive plays are called from upstairs. How the signals get to the quarterback varies, but a transmitter inside a player's helmet is illegal. Usually one assistant in the press box will call the play to another assistant on the field. Then, either a series of hand signals to the quarterback from the sideline or a messenger with the play gives the call to the quarterback. Several years ago, an interesting method was used occasionally too. One player received the play from a sideline coach, ran into the huddle to cue the quarterback and then hustled off the field before the play began. Now this is illegal; if a player comes onto the field, he must remain for at least one play.

The same basics are employed defensively. A coach upstairs will call the alignment to another assistant on the sideline, who will relay via signals to the captain on the field, commonly the middle linebacker.

There is always the danger that the opposition may pick up the signals both offensively and defensively. This can be controlled by using several coaches to give a play with only one signalling the real play. Additionally, an indicator can be used similar to the one a third base coach uses in baseball to thwart the opponent from stealing the signs easily.

Many schools use three sets of phones on the field and two sets upstairs. While the offense is driving, the defensive coaches may be talking to players or other assistants on the field about what went right or wrong on the preceding series. When the offense concludes its series, the quarterback may confer with coaches upstairs to check on alignments of the defense. Since the press box view affords the coaches a panoramic view of the field, they can spot potential points of exploitation more easily than the players on the field.

Which coaches are in the booth depend on the philosophy of the institution. Line coaches may be in the press box to watch breakdowns in the "phone booth" play; a receiver coach might be upstairs so he can watch the opponent's coverage. Defensively, perhaps the secondary coach will be used in the booth to depict favorite patterns of certain receivers. Generally, if plays are called from upstairs, the offensive coordinator is a good bet to be in the "booth."

The offense or defense alignments of the opponent may determine the importance of coaches in the press box. For example, a wishbone offense, though it often boggles the defense, is basically simple to understand. The quarterback has all the options. There are fewer plays from which to choose in a wishbone offense, so the advantage of a defensive coach upstairs may not be as great as it would be if a multiple offense were used.

If a team surprises its opposition with an unexpected offense or formation, the defense—with coaches upstairs—can adjust more easily since the whole scope of the play can be seen. If headsets were not in existence, it would be more difficult to spot the breakdowns and it would take longer to adjust.

Some teams permit a quarterback to call his own plays and even audible out plans called from upstairs. This, however, is dependent on the maturity of the signal caller. Other schools would rather remove that responsibility and let the quarterback concentrate on his physical skills. Since the coaches in the booth usually know what play has been called, they know where to look for missed assignments.

The more intelligent players, if they sense a changing trend, will ask questions of the coaches upstairs, trying to find a new weakness to attack.

The phone systems can be similar to a course in advanced psychology. The coaches upstairs and on the field are trying to outguess the opponent. The headsets hopefully reduce the chance of being totally surprised; on the other hand, their utilization can increase the chance of spotting a weakness in the opponent and exploiting it to its full potential.

Game plans are often adjusted during the heat of the game by the men on the phones

Automobile dealers in Nebraska are contributing a large measure of help to the University of Nebraska athletic program through the loan of courtesy cars.

Like other programs which are a part of the Cornhusker booster group activities, this project enables the Nebraska Athletic Department to make greater use of its funds.

These sports-minded dealers around the state have earned a great debt of gratitude from the University of Nebraska Athletic Department. They are an important part of the "team" that includes players, coaches, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni, Husker Educational Award group, Touchdown Club, Extra Point Club, Beef Club and the courtesy car program.

Angels and Cadets Serve Press Box Patrons

By SHIRLEY JANSSEN
Student Assistant
Office of University Information

An "Angel" helps a fan to her seat in the press box.

The hostesses wear blue and white uniforms and buttons that say: "Happiness is being an angel." The hosts wear ROTC uniforms and act as security guards at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's best attended and supported function, the football game.

These hostesses and hosts are members of Angel Flight and Arnold Air Society. Their organizations receive $50 per football game to see that people who hold tickets to the Memorial Stadium press box and VIP section are seated and cared for. This includes serving cokes and coffee to those news people, etc. who can't leave the game for refreshments. (The tender loving care goes far as remembering that one news person likes his coffee with an ice cube in it.) Eight members of each organization serve in the press box each Saturday.

Arnold Air Society is a professional honorary fraternity of selected Air Force cadets who wish to further their career potential through community service projects.

Angel Flight is a chapter for women, a subsidiary of Arnold Air with 40 members. Arnold Air has 27 members.

Each group carries out projects such as visiting old peoples' homes, taking orphaned children on outings and ringing bells at Christmas for the Salvation Army. Lynne Krecklow and Eugene French, members of the groups, say these activities take from five to 20 hours of their time every week.

Arnold Air, with about 165 chapters across the country, and Angel Flight, with more than 100 chapters, have been active on the NU campus since the late 1940's.

Remember the House at 1520 R?

Remember it as the Phi Mu sorority? Or International House? As the Faculty Club? Or a fraternity annex?

Well now the house at 1520 R would like to be remembered as Alumni House . . . A place for NU alumni, students, faculty and friends to meet and exchange ideas. A place where alumni reunions, tours, clubs and workshops are born. A place to make the alum visiting campus feel "at home."

The house at 1520 R . . . Remember it as the new headquarters for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Alumni Association.

It's OPEN HOUSE at the ALUMNI HOUSE today, after the game. Come tour our new house, sip some coffee and visit with friends.

BOOST HER.

Here are two ways you can show your support of Women's Intercollegiate Athletics in Nebraska. Choose either option, or both. As a member of the WIA Boost Her Club you'll experience the excitement of intercollegiate competition and help build and maintain a successful athletic program for women.

A. I'd like to be a member of the WIA Boost Her Club. The three membership categories below include a season pass to all women's athletic events and an annual membership card. Please indicate category and make checks payable to "WIA Boost Her Club".

- ☐ FAMILY membership $25/year
☐ INDIVIDUAL membership $15/year
☐ STUDENT, FACULTY, STAFF membership $10/year

B. I'd like to be a member of the WIA BOOST HER CLUB by contributing a tax-deductible gift of $ _____ to the University of Nebraska Foundation for the UNL/WIA Fund. This will qualify me as a member of the Boost Her Club but does not entitle me to a season pass. Make checks payable to "UN Foundation-UNL/WIA Fund".

NEBRASKA SPELLS "SPORTSMANSHIP"

The University of Nebraska is known and respected all over the nation for its red-attired fans, as well as its football teams.

Nebraska fans also have a nation-wide reputation for good sportsmanship, at home and away.

"Big League"—that's the way Nebraska teams and fans have acquitted themselves in past seasons, and that's the same goal for 1975.

The University of Nebraska urges all 1975 fans to continue this fine tradition of sportsmanship by extending courtesy to the visiting teams and officials.

All of us on the Cornhusker Staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support and sportsmanship.

Yours for Nebraska,

Bob Devaney

Cornhusker Marching Band to Present "Music in American Sports"

Today's halftime presentation by the Cornhusker Marching Band, "Music in American Sports," is the second in a series of Bicentennial shows to be performed during the 1975 season.

The Band will open with the familiar fanfare to the Olympic Games, followed by a medley of well-known college fight songs. Solo twirler Charla Jean Willson's performance will be accompanied by the strains of the National Basketball Association theme heard on CBS Television.

The Band will also maneuver to the familiar NFL theme heard on CBS.

To insure equal time for all networks, the Band will present ABC's Wide World of Sports theme and the NBC Sports theme. Then there will be a time out on the field as sports lovers hear the familiar strains from the number one commercials!

For its finale, the "Marching Red" will play the central theme of sports in America—"Big Spender."

TV service technicians name Zenith for the two things you want most in color TV.

I. Best Picture.

In a recent nationwide survey of independent TV service technicians, Zenith was named, more than any other brand, as the color TV with the best picture.

Question: In general, of the color TV brands you are familiar with, which one would you say has the best overall picture?

Answers:

Zenith	36%
Brand A.....	20%
Brand B.....	10%
Brand C.....	7%
Brand D.....	6%
Brand E.....	3%
Brand F.....	2%
Brand G.....	2%
Brand H.....	2%
Brand I.....	1%
Other Brands.....	3%
About Equal.....	11%
Don't Know.....	4%

Note: Answers total over 100% due to multiple responses.

II. Fewest Repairs.

In the same survey, the service technicians named Zenith as the color TV needing the fewest repairs. By more than 2-to-1 over the next brand.

For survey details, write to the Vice President, Consumer Affairs, Zenith Radio Corporation, 1900 N. Austin Avenue, Chicago, IL 60639.

Question: In general, of the color TV brands you are familiar with, which one would you say requires the fewest repairs?
